Graham To Stand Trial

Crown Seeks to Show Alleged Hold-up Was Hoax —Witnesses Heard

With the evidence of the Crown all in, the preliminary hearing in the case of Ernest G. Graham, charged with fabricating a hold-up and with conversion by theft of money belonging to the John Deere Plow Company, for which he was collector, concluded shortly after five on Thursday afternoon. Accused, who reserved his defence, was remanded for trial on bail of $5000 and two sureties of $2500 each on both counts. With the agreement of counsel for the defence, M. E. Moscovich, the evidence taken on the first count, that of fabrication, was allowed to apply to the count of conversion by theft.

Case For Crown

The Crown is seeking to prove that the alleged hold-up was a fabrication on the part of Graham and that some of the bills alleged to have been stolen from him in the hold-up were in his possession after the occurrence and later passed by him. For this purpose witnesses were called. The R.C.M.P. have a list of the serial notes alleged to have been stolen with their numbers. The bills said by Graham to have been stolen from him in the hold-up were money obtained by farmers for grain sold, which found its way to Graham in collections made, and were later, as alleged, negotiated by him.

Houie Gam, Chinaman, who runs a restaurant at Whissy Gap, identified a $20 bill, of the bills said by Graham to have been stolen from him, as changed by Graham to pay a bill of 30 cents for a sandwich and piece of pie at about six o'clock on October 21, the day of the alleged hold-up, stated to have taken place three hours later, shortly after nine p.m.

J. Williams, who operates a service station at Cardston, stated that Graham bought some gasoline for his car from him on October 23, which he paid for in three one dollar bills and then wanted him to change a $20 bill. Not having the change he referred him to a man named Wallburger who was present, who changed the bill.

John Rae, relief man in the Lethbridge post office money order department, deposed to issuing to a man who gave the name of Ernest G. Graham two money orders on October 23, one of $50, made out to Mrs. Graham, Regina, and one for $35 payable to J. Debert, Regina for which five $20 bills were tendered. He could not identify the man.

H. S. White, senior clerk in charge of the money order department in the post office, testified to finding 26 $20 bills when checking up the cash at the end of the day. Miss Glarner, receiving teller, deposed to five $20 bills, produced, being deposited in the post office account at the Bank of Montreal by Mr. White on October 25. The bills were retained in court as exhibits.

Mrs. Eva Stoddart, of the Spencer Hotel, Cardston, deposed to Graham staying there at the week-end of the week in which the alleged hold-up took place, and paying her $10, the bill owing. She did not remember the number of the bill. It is alleged by the Crown that this was one of the bills said to have been stolen.

Ticket to Regina

Owen Blake, ticket agent for the Greyhound busses, Lethbridge, testified to issuing a return ticket for Regina on Sunday, October 24, in the sum of $12.45, for which a $20 bill was tendered by a man who he did not know and whom he described as being between 45 and 50 years of age and wearing a grey suit. He did not recognize him in court. The bill with other bills is with the exhibits in court.

D. S. Brown, teller of the Royal Bank, Lethbridge, deposed to receiving a $10 bill produced in court, number corresponding to one of the bills said to have been stolen, in a deposit made but, he said, he could not state positively by whom it was deposited.

Today's Garden-Graph

By DEAN MALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Association

Potting calla lilies

Calla Lily b... obtained now and they should be potted immediately. If potting only one bulb use a six-inch pot. Potting three bulbs in a nine-inch pot is very effective.

A good potting mixture to use is equal parts of good loam, sand and leaf mold. To this add either some well rotted cow manure or bone-meal.

As shown in this Garden-Graph, let the growing tip of the bulb protrude above the soil. Have the soil at least one inch below the upper rim of the flower pot, so that later if surface roots appear they can be covered with soil.

After potting, place the bulbs in a cool, semi-dark room and water very little for several weeks. Then as the leaves start growing, place the pots in a light, warm room and give liberal amounts of water.

As soon as the flower stalks appear, feed with liquid manure about once a week, but do this only after they have been well watered.

COMMUNISTS WILL MEET NOVEMBER 21

Lethbridge Communists will meet on Nov. 21 to decide whether or not to enter a candidate in the provincial by-election on Dec. 2, the Herald was informed on Thursday. The following day, Nov. 22, is nomination day so supporters of that party have but a short time to come to their decision.
