New Democracy Is Not Political Party But Alignment Of Existing Parties To Beat "Reaction" Says Regina Mayor

But Appeal for C.C.F. Aid in Saskatchewan is Turned Down

SASKATOON, July 14.—(CP)—Unanimous decision to refuse a proposal for co-operation with the New Democracy movement in the forthcoming federal elections in Saskatchewan was made Thursday by the fourth convention of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Commonwealth meeting.

Mayor A. C. Ellison of Regina, and George H. Barr, K.C., recently nominated to carry the Herridge banner in the Regina federal riding, presented the request for co-operation with the New Democracy movement to the convention.

Mayor Ellison declared the New Democracy movement was not a new political party, but an alignment of existing parties, groups and individuals for the purposes of defeating the forces of reaction, in the coming federal election and to obtain immediate reforms. There was no suggestion the C.C.F. should sink its identity. It was the logical position of the C.C.F. to give leadership to the people of Canada for a higher standard, employment of youth and security for age. This could be accomplished under the Herridge banner.

Not Enough Candidates

It was known that the C.C.F. would not have sufficient candidates in the federal field to elect a government, said Mayor Ellison. Victory was certain only through joining hands with other reform groups, he asserted.

People did not want an Utopia for their grandchildren. They wanted a new deal now. If the C.C.F. refused the New Democracy offer it would cause a struggle among progressive forces which really saw eye to eye on many issues and contribute to the support of reaction at the polls. "Are we going to divide and let reaction win, or will we ourselves unite, and be victorious?"

Mr. Barr told the convention that Canada needed the services of such men as M. J. Coldwell, T. C. Douglas and other C.C.F. members. Co-operation would assure the election of these.

Coldwell Accepts Challenge

Mr. Coldwell accepted a challenge to debate the New Democracy proposal, issued recently by Mayor Ellison. He recalled the Progressive movement of 20 years ago, when 65 men "without a philosophy or a program" were elected to Ottawa. More than half of these had shed progressism at the first opportunity and had gone to their "own places," some of them still sat in a reactionary government.

He declared the present unity movement was in the same category as that of 20 years ago. "Frustration, defeat and betrayal of the farmers' organization would be in the Herridge movement, as it had been in the previous unity attempt. It was formed solely to defeat reaction but offered nothing to take reaction's place. In 1925, when the Progressive move disbanded, many retired to their studies and were not heard from until the recent Herridge move. I would rather go down to defeat than be associated with such a group," Mr. Coldwell decalred.

Originally, he understood, it was the intention of the New Democracy not to run candidates, and he was amazed to find they had nominated men in Saskatchewan, and here alone where the stronghold of the C.C.F. was situated.

Is That Unity?

The C.C.F. was itself a New Democracy movement. It had been denounced as such by the Communists and Social Credit, which had rallied to the banner of Mr. Herridge. "Is that unity or disunity?" Mr. Coldwell asked.

Although he did not doubt the sincerity of Mayor Ellison and Mr. Barr, he believed them to be instruments of outside forces bent on dividing the people's movement in Saskatchewan. He invited the New Democracy representatives to unite with the C.C.F. and drew a comparison between the "sheltered life" of Mr. Herridge and the strenuous one of J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader.

Woman Flier Says Europe, South Africa More Air-Minded

HAMILTON, Ont., July 14.—(CP)—Flying around Hamilton these days is a young Vancouver-born woman, Helen M. Harrison, whose exciting aviation career has taken her over most of South Africa, Great Britain and the United States.

Miss Harrison is flying a plane for a commercial company and says Canada and the United States are far from being as air-minded as Europe or even South Africa.

The Vancouver aviatrix has spent most of her time during the past six years in the air. She said she found flying cost money, so she turned instructor and taught at the Pretoria and other flying schools throughout South Africa.

She holds five aviation licences, including English "A" and "B" and commercial, a South African "B" and both United States and commercial tickets.

Canadian Flier Goes To Imperial Airways

VANCOUVER, July 14.—(CP)—Pilot M. E. "Molly" Small, well-known British Columbia flyer who has been piloting a Canadian Airways, Limited, machine between here and Victoria for the past several months, today said he had received confirmation of his appointment to the staff of Imperial Airways Limited.

Pilot Small recently visited New York where he was interviewed by Imperial Airways officials. He will leave Canadian Airways at the end of this week.

Pilot Small began flying in 1927, taking lessons with the Hamilton, Ont., Aero Club. The following year he joined the Royal Canadian Air Force, flying in Ontario for three years before being transferred to Vancouver in 1931.

Parachute Jammed, Spend Night in Air

Left suspended in mid-air 125 feet above the ground when a parachute jammed at the World's Fair parachute jump in New York, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rathborne spent over five hours clinging precariously to their narrow perch until rescue came at 4:40 a.m. A jammed pulley which burned out an electric motor was blamed for the mishap. Crowds gathered below and shouted encouragement to the couple who were finally brought to earth none the worse for the experience. Here they are shown during their enforced stay above ground.

They Asked For It

This Is Interesting Reading

HERE'S a funny thing! All during the winter and spring you hear people say "Oh, for some warm weather" or "I wish it was summer"—and when summer does come they are miserable, if not positively prostrated by the heat. Then they wish for cold weather again.

It was because of people like this that I invented the expression "stick to your Dr. Jackson Meal this summer". And now I'm going to tell you why—and if you are one who "suffers from the heat" you should read what I have to say.

The only cause of "wilting" in hot weather is an absence of a proper mineral balance in the body and blood. This lack of mineral balance results only from eating mineral-deficient foods. It need never be! Mineral-rich foods are plentiful and cheap, if you will only seek them out and use them steadfastly.

The above is a photograph of Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., now in his 82nd year. After eighteen years of increasing decrepitude and approaching death, Dr. Jackson at 60 was given only four months to live by the great Sir Wm. Osler.

By natural living habits and the use of mineral-rich foods, Dr. Jackson today has the strength, stamina and resistance of a trained young athlete and challenges physical degeneration, old age and sickness to attack him.

I always marvel at the numbers of persons who following my lectures remark "Oh, if I can only be like you when I am eighty!" yet few of them will follow the simple rules I recommend that will make them so fit that neither heat nor cold causes suffering.

It is impossible to be as fit as I am at 80 or any age if the blood is not provided with a balanced mineral supply—and this can be so easily assured by concentrating upon my mineral-rich cereals, Dr. Jackson Meal (formerly Roman Meal), Bekus-Puddy or Lishus, together with raw fruits and vegetables, and my delicious beverage Kofy-Sub, which has the essential iron and other minerals upon which resistance depends.

Oh, so easy! But tell me why it is so hard to induce many otherwise sensible people to do this simple thing. Don't you be one of this set. Join the vigorous and healthy who "stick to their Dr. Jackson Meal" summer and winter and are glad of it.
